Easy to Polish

Easily Applied—No Odor—No Dirt. To polish a stove, like peppering a beefteak, may seem odd to those who have never used Sifter Stove Polish, but never-theless it is the newest, easiest and most theless it is the newest, easiest and most convenient method known. Sifter Stove Polish is put up in a large, round box, with a perforated top similar to a pepper box. The polish never dries out and does not require soaking in water before using. There is never any waste. It is good to the last pinch. It is gently sifted on the stove, brushed with a damp cotth and lightly subbed with a dry cloth. A brilliant jet black luster is obtained. There is no odor, no dirty saucers or pans, no rusty boxes to cover. The Sifter box is always clean. Sifter Blove Polish is cheap. It costs 5 cents a box, will polish more stoves then three times its cost in any other polish. All dealers.

DESERTED NAVY FOR ARMY. Soldier Taken From Fort Leaven

worth Back to Norfolk.

WOFIR BACK TO NOTIOIK.

Phil Williamson of Pohanseit, L. L. who deserted the navy in 1899 to join the army, passed through Union Station vesterday guarded by Chief Master-at-Arms J. Colins of the Norfolk (Va.) Navy Yard. Williamson is being taken back as a deserter and probably will serve a term of imprisonment. He was arrested at Fort Leavenworth a week ago, where he was serving as a solder in Unele Sam's army. He still wore the full khaki uniform of the Fourth United States Cavalry when he alighted at Union Station.

Williamson was a seaman on the Inited States Cavalry when he slighted at Union Station.

Williamson was a seaman on the Inited States gunleat Wheeling, which was stationed in British Columbia waters in 1829. The sailor tired of the sait sea air and the swell of the ocean, and pined for the life of a land lubber. His desire prompted him to desert, and one night he dropped over the side of the gunboat, secured a life bout and rowed to shore. He made his way to the State of Washington, and thence to Kansas, where he enlisted as a soldier at Fort Leavenworth. Williamson says prating at Fort Leavenworth of his life in the ocean wave is responsible for his arrest as a deserter. He thinks, however, that he will be only slightly punished, as he merely quit one branch of Uncle Sam's war department for an-

The kindness and generosity of Doctor Bryson were dwelt upon by the Reverend Father McMenamy, who said the extent and scope of the dead surgeon's charities would never be known, as it was always his wish to perform good deeds quietly. newspapers, pays the following tribute to St. Louis and the Exposition.

"When Horace Greeley said, "Go West, young man and grow up with the country, he little knew that St. Louis, then a strapping youngster, was destined to become the third largest dry goods market in the third largest dry goods market in the third largest dry goods market in the united States, the most important horse and mule market in the world, and the great capital of the finest agricultural region in America, Westward the Star of Empire has winged its flight until St. Louis is no longer out west, but the bright particular star of the heart and center of the Union. "When that eminent philosopher and journalist presaged the vast possibilities of the West he little knew that the gigantic strides which have placed America at the head of all the nations of the earth would also expand St. Louis until the broadening spirit has reached a climax in the greatest and broadest exposition the world has ever seen. The grand scale upon which the work has been started, the architectural beauty of the exhibit buildings, the colossal scope of the Exposition project are a revelation, and appeal to the patriotic pride of the visitor. Those of us who have observed for the past week the type of the St. Louis business man, his alertness, splendid energy, quick movement, taking to the point and allighting in doing things, are assured in advance that the mammoth undertaking will be a triumph of industrial achievement and a historical event that will commemorate the onward march of thought and progress."

Who Fell in River. Murphysboro, Ill., May .—In attempting to save the life of his lo-year-old companion, Dundee Ray, William Urquhart, 2t years old, was drowned in the Mississippi River near Wagner's Landing last night.

The two had gone to the river from the Ray home near by to light the Government lamp at the landing and to look after a trot line. It is not known exactly how the accident occurred, but the supposition is that the boy fell into the water while drawing in the trot line, and the man was drowned in an attempt to rescue his companion.

A searching party worked all last night and to-day dragging for the bodies, but up to a late hour this afternoon they had not been found.

Via Vandalia Line will be inaugurated for this season on May 10, $1.25 to Effingham; lower rates to intermediate points. Train leaves St. Louis 7:48 a. m., returning leaves Effingham at 4:15 p. m. Ticket offices, Seventh and Olive streets and Union Station.
